

CONEY'S BIGGEST CROWD TAKES PART IN OPENING OF CITY'S GREAT BATHS

Successful Completion of The Evening World's Project Joyously Celebrated on Land and Water.

With hundreds of thousands of merry-makers, all in holiday mood, surging through Coney Island streets to join in the festival proceedings celebrating the opening of the new municipal bath house, for which The Evening World has fought for years, the most doubtful spectator had to throw over all questions as to the general popularity of the new institution this afternoon.

No Sunday of the year brought such crowds to Coney Island as were there today to cheer the parade, the opening of the new municipal bath house, for which The Evening World has fought for years, the most doubtful spectator had to throw over all questions as to the general popularity of the new institution this afternoon.

Out on the water seven times as many yachts and powerboats appeared as had been expected and the committee boats were busy extending the lines.

Mayor Gaynor was too much fatigued by the exercises at First Headquarters in the morning to be there, but sent a full representation of other officials of the city.

A magnificent land parade, as well as a water carnival in which beautiful yachts and many boats took part, bands of music, fire fireworks, aquatic contests, including diving, swimming, a float loaned by the sporting managers, Powers and Pollock, life-saving stunts, speed swimming and other feats filled out the attractive programme for the celebration outside of the bathing.

Uncle Sam, as well as the City of New York, was represented in the marine parade. Collector Loeb had designated a revenue cutter to take official part in the water carnival. The cutter and other boats having saluting guns fired salutes at the opening and closing of the water carnival. Afterward the public officials and celebrities will adjourn to the banquet which closes the day.

MANY DIVINE ORGANIZATIONS IN BIG PARADE.

The land parade was an imposing spectacle. Seventeen divine organizations, according to Alderman Drencher, were in line. Ex-Judge Owen Flinnery was in charge of this demonstration. The organizations, including the performers from Luna Park in fancy costume, met at 12:30 in West Seventeenth street and Surf avenue, Coney Island. They marched down Surf avenue and disbanded in front of the bathhouse.

Arrangements had been made by all the prominent business men of the island to have their employees participate in the parade. Louis Staudt marshalled all his uniformed waiters in line. George Tilyou of Steeplechase Park supplied attractions on floats from that popular amusement resort. Charles Feldman, with the Seventy-first Regiment Band, commanded one division of the parade. Stephen E. Jackman, William J. Ward and other business men were all represented.

Fire Commissioner Johnson ordered out a battalion of uniformed firemen to participate in the land celebration. Every feature of the ceremonies will be preserved for future generations. Arrangements had been made with a prominent moving picture concern to photograph the land parade, the official ceremonies at the bathhouse, the aquatic sports and the marine parade.

After the opening of the building, the Committee on Aquatic Sports, of which William P. McLoughlin is chairman, assumed charge.

The entire building, according to Commissioner Johnson, will be ready on Aug. 12. Mr. Garber would have had the building completed to-day had it not been for the unfortunate labor troubles. These difficulties have been smoothed over, and as the men are working overtime it would not be surprising if the people will have use of the three floors before the end of the present week.

FAVORED ONES DREW MONEY OUT BEFORE THE CRASH

Union Bank Clerk Testifies Certain Depositors Were Notified in Advance.

George Frank of No. 869 Sterling place, Brooklyn a former clerk in the Union Bank, after it had been reorganized out of the remains of the Mechanics and Traders' Bank, told Deputy Superintendent William Earl Dodge to-day's hearing on the bank's affairs, of the opportunity given to favored depositors of the bank to get money out before the closing of the bank was made public.

On Jan. 25, 1908, said Frank, the day when the bank was closed, he found in a waste basket near his desk a sheet, torn to bits. He placed the sheet together. It contained entries showing that certain depositors had made heavy withdrawals after the State Bank Examiners had appeared to take charge of the bank.

Frank said that he went to friends connected with a New York newspaper for help, taking the torn and pieced-together tally sheet with him. He went over the whole matter in the newspaper office. The next day he was called into the office of the president of the bank and asked whether he had not taken the tally sheet to a Manhattan newspaper office. He admitted that he had.

"Then," he said, "they made me sign a complete denial that I had found any such paper or that I had discovered any evidence of wrong doing in the conduct of the bank."

Edward M. Groat, who became president of the Union Bank, sent a letter to Mr. Dodge to-day, which he demanded to have put in record, denouncing the testimony of Orin H. Cheney, former Superintendent of Banks, yesterday, as "very free and reckless in his expressions of opinion of criminality on the part of other people."

He reminded Mr. Dodge that the inquiry in being to get facts and not "in bringing out or stating opinions which fairly characterize the acts of others."

Mr. Groat especially took issue with Mr. Cheney's testimony about the truthfulness of the last report of the Union Bank, which Mr. Groat says was absolutely true. Mr. Groat states that, while the entries regarding the withdrawal of the bank's funds from the Union Bank, which Mr. Cheney criticized yesterday, were made during Mr. Groat's absence from the bank because of illness, he went over them afterward and believes that the report states them accurately.

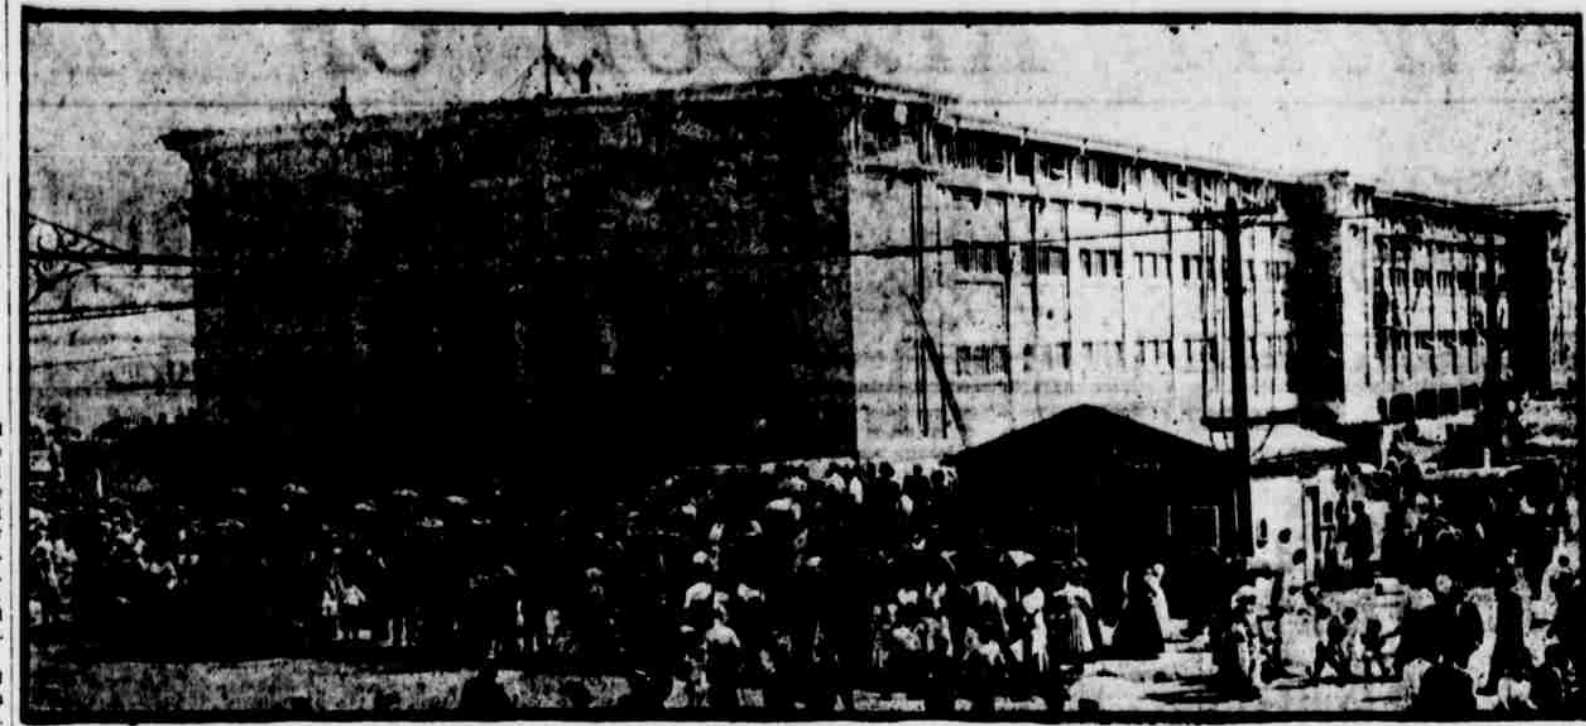

DIVORCE FOR MRS. BOURNE.

Decree Entered in Her Favor Following Referee's Report.

Supreme Court Justice Brady has signed an interlocutory decree of divorce in favor of Mrs. Louise Anne Bourne from Charles Griswold Bourne of No. 40 West Fifty-ninth street. There is no mention of alimony in the decree.

Former Justice William A. Keener was appointed referee in the testimony and he reported in favor of granting a decree to Mrs. Bourne. The testimony and report of the referee are sealed by order of the Court.

ROBBER SHOTS JEWELLER AND MAKES ESCAPE

gaged in the robbery and murder at the jewelry store at Thirtieth street and Sixth avenue last Saturday night. As rapidly as possible the block bounded by Madison and Fifth avenue and One Hundred and Eighth and One Hundred and Ninth streets was surrounded.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty arrived, having made the trip from Headquarters to One Hundred and Sixth street in his automobile in fourteen minutes. He took charge of the hunt for the fugitive.

Silverman was attended by Dr. Marks of Harlem Hospital and his family physician, Dr. Greenstein. The bullet was found to be imbedded in a bone of the shoulder, and the injured jeweller was removed in an ambulance to the office of Dr. Stewart in East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, where an X-ray photograph was taken for the guidance of the surgeon.

THIEF THREW OFF CROWD BY RUNNING OVER ROOFS.

After fruitlessly searching the block into which the thief fled when beset by the crowd the police learned how he got away. It appears that he went to the roof of No. 124 Madison avenue, crossed to the roof of a house in One Hundred and Ninth street to the rear yard of No. 16 East One Hundred and Tenth street, and gained the latter thoroughfare through the cellar. No trace of him could be found beyond One Hundred and Tenth street.

UNCLE SAM'S BANK OPENS WITH RUSH FOR FIRST DEPOSIT

Postal Savings Institution Starts Here.

In the presence of Postmaster Morgan and a battalion of reporters, re-inforced by a battery of photographers, New York's first postal savings bank was formally opened at 9 o'clock to-day in the money order room of the General Post-Office.

Clarence A. Parkes of No. 1321 Intervale avenue, the Bronx, slipped a two dollar bill across the counter and got a fancy looking certificate numbered "1" in exchange. Then, wearing a smile of ecstatic bliss, he turned around and posed while the camera men turned their fire on him.

There was lively competition for the privilege of making the first deposit. The custodian had issued strict instructions that no one was to be admitted to the second floor of the building before 9 o'clock, and numerous gentlemen who thought their inalienable rights were being ruthlessly trampled under foot gave utterance to loud shrieks of protest.

POSTOFFICE EMPLOYEE'S LITTLE STRATEGY FAILS.

Joseph Frankel, a postoffice employee, thought he was going to put one over on the outside public, and with this idea in mind he slipped his little nine-year-old daughter, Sophie, into his office about 8:45. Sophie had $1.50 tucked away in her right fist and she was all "perked up" with her hair in a braid and filled with the importance of the occasion.

At 9 o'clock when the bars were let down Papa Frankel rushed her into the money order room ahead of the front ranks of the hot polio, and it looked as if he were going to get away with it. Little Sophie got the first place in line and stood up on tiptoe to see through the window.

"Where do you live, little girl?" asked the clerk.

"In Brooklyn, at No. 26 Fifty-fifth street," replied Sophie.

"I can't take your deposit if you don't live in Manhattan or the Bronx," said the clerk.

Little Sophie, who looked disappointed enough to cry, dropped out of line and went back to console with her father, who was extremely distressed. At this point Clarence A. Parkes stepped forward and made the first deposit.

EIGHT DIE IN FIRE AS LUNATICS FIGHT OFF RESCUE FORCE

Some Dash Into Flames, While Others Are Clubbed Senseless at Asylum Blaze.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 1.—Eight persons are dead and four missing after a fire which partly destroyed one of the main buildings of the asylum for the insane on the side of the mountain southwest of the city early to-day. Many others are injured. Horrible scenes attended the rescue of the inmates, who, in wild delirium, fought off efforts to save them, and some of those who lost their lives deliberately dashed back into the flames while being conducted to places of safety. Many of the patients had to be clubbed senseless and then dropped into life nets held by firemen.

The dead were: Charles Billyard, Dundas, Ont.; Alfred May, St. Catharines, Ont.; John Heffernan, Arthur, Ont.; Thomas Evans, Elora, Ont.; Edward Soder, Welland, Ont.; John T. Holdaway, Lindsay, Ont.; George W. Storey, Hockley, Ont.; and Albert Bowler, Dundas, Ont.

There were 800 sleeping patients in the building when the fire was discovered, and it was only a well-trained fire-fighting corps and splendid coolness and bravery among the nurses and attendants under Dr. English that averted a more frightful loss of life.

The women were moved without serious difficulty and housed in the adjoining buildings. The situation among the men was more serious. The fire broke out on the fourth floor in what is known as section D, where the most violently insane are kept. The bulk of the men, guarded by attendants, moved down three flights of stairs out of the fire zone in orderly procession, but about a score, driven into a frenzy by the stifling smoke and the excitement of a midnight fire, fought off their rescuers with desperate fury. Three of them, after being carried down to the second floor, broke away and fled back to the burning corridor.

Crawling into the stifling smoke the firemen groped their way about until they found a maniac. If he was unconscious from smoke the task was easy, but if he was still able to offer resistance, he was knocked senseless and dropped into the life nets below. Eight of the insane and one attendant who had lost consciousness in the work of rescue were saved in this way and it was believed at 3 o'clock that every patient had been taken out of the burning section of the building.

Westinghouse Co. Reorganizes.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company to-day Edward P. Atkins, who succeeded George Westinghouse in the reorganization a year ago, asked to be relieved. The board elected the following: Chairman, Robert Matheson; President, Edward M. Herr, who has been Vice-President in charge of manufacturing and commercial operations since 1906; Vice-Presidents, Loyall A. Osborne, Charles A. Terry and Harry P. David; Acting Vice-Presidents, George W. Hebard and H. D. Shultz; Comptroller and Secretary, James C. Bennett; Treasurer and Assistant Secretary, T. W. Siemon.

STEEL AND IRON MEN WORK SEVEN DAYS A WEEK.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor to-day in a special report to the Senate on conditions of employment in the iron and steel industry in the United States stated that out of over 10,000 employees covered in the report the customary working week of one-third of them was a seven-day week, Sunday not differing from other days, and approximately one-fourth of the 10,000 worked eighty-four hours or over per week, which, in effect, means a twelve-hour day every day in the week, including Sunday.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR ENGAGED TO MARRY MADELEINE FORCE

my daughter and Col. Astor have been engaged several months. The engagement dates back only a few days. My daughter and Col. Astor met at Bar Harbor last summer for the first time. This is all that I care to say."

The father of the betrothed of Col. Astor is head of the extensive shipping and forwarding firm of William H. Force & Co., with offices at No. 78 Front street. He was not in his office after he had sent out the announcement of the engagement through a local news bureau. None of his business associates would discuss the engagement or admit that they had ever heard Mr. Force discuss it. When Mr. Force was asked for further particulars he said:

"Mr. Force is making this announcement and you will have to obtain further information from him."

Col. Astor cannot marry in this State under the terms of the final decree of divorce granted to Mrs. Astor by the Supreme Court of New York on March 4 of last year—at least not during the period of five years immediately subsequent to the divorce. After five years he could apply to have the terms of the decree modified so that he could marry in New York again.

At the time Justice Miller signed the divorce decree at White Plains it was announced that Mrs. Astor would receive the largest settlement in the world's history of divorces; that is, alimony of $30,000 a year and a lump sum of $100,000. This was without reference to the settlements in favor of her two children. At that time Col. Astor's income was reckoned in the neighborhood of $500,000 a year.

PASSENGER FALLS OFF SCENIC RAILWAY CAR.

Man Leaned Out of Car at Clason Point and Dropped Twenty-five Feet.

Fascinated by the speed and curves of a scenic railway in Clason Point Park this afternoon, Daniel Birchfield of No. 42 East One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street leaned too far over the guard rail in the side of the miniature car and tumbled twenty-five feet to a grass plot.

He was picked up in an unconscious condition and rushed to Fordham Hospital, suffering from a badly lacerated scalp and face and general contusions of the whole body. Two women passengers in the little car fainted when the man fell.
